

I found my way into heritage by volunteering in various museums and organisations including Newark Museum, the Thackray Medical Museum and The Churches Conservation Trust.

For several years I worked in the retail sector and during this time completed MAs in both practical Conservation as well as Museum Studies: Interpretation.

I started working at the Churches Conservation Trust as Administration Officer, co-ordinating the north regional office in 2013.

Since 2015 I have been in the role of Community Fundraiser for the North Region where I work with communities to raise money through events and grants to maintain their local historic church and preserve heritage.
