

Great networking and reflection opportunity

Keep calm – be confident. You know more than you think you do

Change the conversation – change the behaviour! You can make a change and make a difference in your workplace

Ensure you have set time to reuse and apply what you have learnt after each session, and this is fed back and agreed with your line manager

Buddies and NG20!

The network not to be underestimated!

Chance to step out of your workplace and see the bigger picture; to network; to be encouraged in your career

Come to the course with a firmer idea of what you might want to get out of it – and forewarn Peter.

Pick one thing from each session to apply at work, report / discuss it at next session

Apply the learning when you return to your role at work

Before you start, agree with your line manager about what you hope to get from the course, what they hope to get from the course, and evaluate this as often as you can!

Sharing current practice and problems with colleagues from different areas is helpful

Take advantage of the opportunity to exchange ideas! A great management course with lots of opportunities to see some new sites and meet new people

A wonderful opportunity to meet peers from other services / authorities, take time away from your desk and learn from others' experiences. Take time to reflect and apply your learning to get the best from NG
